

Church Plant Opportunity in Arizona

A core group of believers is looking to identify an Anglican Church Leader interested in planting a new work in the SE Tucson Arizona. Individuals in Tucson associated with The Anglican Church of North America (ACNA) will work alongside the church planter to assist with raising up a new church community.

The focused region in Tucson for a new church plant is in the Southeast section of the city along the Houghton Road corridor. For details about the target area and population, see the other attached article.

The Diocese of Western Anglicans, the Arizona Deanery, and a core team developing the foundational community have committed to provide financial support the individual chosen to fill this position.
